Key Questions and Facts
When and where did the fire start?	The fire of London started in a bakery in Pudding Lane on 2 nd September 1666.
Why did the fire spread?	It hadn't rained for months so the city was very dry. In 1666, lots of people had houses made from wood which burns easily. Houses were built too close together and there was no organised fire brigade.
How did they fight the fire?	They used leather buckets and squirts filled with water, axes, fire-hooks and gunpowder to make fire-breaks.
How did the fire stop?	The fire burned for 4 days. As the wind died down and changed direction the fire became under control and was finally put out.
How many people died?	6 people died as a result of the fire. Thomas Farriner's maid was the first person to die because she was too scared to jump from the burning building.
What happened after the fire?	13,200 houses were destroyed by the fire and 70,000 people were left homeless. Many left London to live elsewhere and some slept in tents.

Key People
Thomas Farriner	An ember from one of Thomas' bakery ovens ignited some nearby firewood. The fire spread quickly around the room and to nearby buildings.
Samuel Pepys	One of the ways we know about the fire is because Samuel Pepys wrote about it in his diary.
King Charles II	Charles II was the King of England in 1666. After the fire, he made a decree that houses must be built further apart and built from stone not timber.
Thomas Bloodworth	Sir Thomas Bloodworth was the Lord Mayor of London in 1666. He was blamed for the spread of the Great Fire of London. This is because, as the Mayor, he did not give approval to stop the fire.
Sir Christopher Wren	Christopher Wren was an architect in London at the time of the fire. He re-designed St Pauls cathedral, along with many other buildings in the city. He also designed the Monument to commemorate the fire.
